make or unmake a president. The quarrel of a great man in those days involved in bitterness all his followers, and the bitterness not infrequently continued after the great man's death. The American people are too busy in the twentieth century, or too enlightened or too indifferent, to long bother their heads about the hurt vanities or pinched ambitions of their political bosses or office-holders. There used to be a school of politics that consisted merely in smoothing over rough places, pouring oil on water when the wind blew and being very careful not to hurt anybody's feelings. Some men, even men who aspire to the presidency, still play the game in that antiquated way. But Mr. Roosevelt doesn't practice that kind of politics, and Mr. Bryan doesn't have to.

Why, Mr. Roosevelt has hurt the feelings and stepped on the toes and pulled the noses of enough party "leaders" to have everlastingly ruined him if the people had cared a picayune at all about it. But the people didn't care. They were thinking about the things for which Mr. Roosevelt stood, and not about the sores which some disgruntled men were nursing. And because the people didn't care anything about Senator Smith's sore toe, or Senator Brown's injured nose, and did care about Mr. Roosevelt and the things he was trying to do, Senators Smith and Brown are busy at they can be just now trying to convince the people in their home states that they have always been enthusiastically loyal to Roosevelt. If anyone thinks Mr. Bryan has ruined himself by trying to have Mr. Sullivan ousted from the democratic national committee, they need only look at Smith's toe and Brown's nose, and then look at Mr. Roosevelt.

Bryan's Running Mate.

The slate-makers already are busy with Mr. Bryan and his boom for president. Half a dozen men have been elected to be his running mate and his campaign manager has been picked out. Gossip as to the vice-presidential candidate is about as idle as anything could well be, but there is undoubted foundation for the prediction that should Mr. Bryan be the candidate for president in 1908 Senator Stone of Missouri would be chairman of the democratic national committee. Senator Stone has been close and consistent friend of the Nebraskan, and it is known that Mr. Bryan has large admiration for the Missourian's political sagacity.

The most interesting of the men who have been mentioned for vice-president on the democratic ticket is Charles A. Towne, member of congress from New York and a one-time distinguished citizen of Minnesota. On a recent visit to Washington Mr. Towne gave out an interview in which he declared his willingness to accept second place on a ticket of which Mr. Bryan was the head. He declared that he would consent to make the race with no one except Mr. Bryan, giving as one of his chief reasons that should Mr. Bryan be elected president the vice-president would have a seat at the administration's council table and play something more important than an ornamental part of the government.

It is undoubtedly true that Mr. Towne would lend more or less strength to the ticket, but the chances are very strong that the vice-presidential candidate will be selected when the convention meets, and not before that time.

NEWS OF OREGON AND THE NORTHWEST.

ACTIVITY IN BUILDING AT DRAIN.

DRAIN, Ore., August 7.—Work has been begun on the new depot, which will replace the one destroyed by fire a year ago last July. The new building will be 92 by 25 feet, and will be used both for freight and for offices.

Several improvements are being made on the Normal School building. The grading is now being done preparatory to building a four-room addition, which will be 32 feet long and will run the entire length of the north side of the building. A new heating plant, costing $3300, is being installed, and both outside and inside of the building are receiving a new coat of paint.

The new Perkins hotel is nearing completion and will be ready for use in less than 30 days. It is two stories high and contains 25 rooms. The water will be supplied from a private reservoir. The hotel will be conducted by Mrs. L. M. Perkins.

ROADS PURCHASED BY N. P.

TACOMA, Wash., August 7.—The report that the Northern Pacific has taken over the Port Angeles and Peninsular and the Port Angeles and Olympic railway projects is confirmed by C. M. Levey, third vice-president of the Northern Pacific. He says that the Port Angeles & Peninsular will be built from Port Angeles southwest to Lake Crescent and that branch roads will be built through the peninsula in order to tap the timber belt in Clallam county. A ferry, now in use on the Columbia at Kalama, will probably be used to connect Everett and Port Ludlow. This part of the plan is not, however, definite.

TO ENTERTAIN LAUNDRYMEN.

PENDLETON, Ore., August 7.—On September 29 and 30 the Interstate Laundrymen's Association will hold its annual session in this city and arrangements are now being made for the same. It is expected that about 50 members of the association will be present and of this number many will go on to Denver to attend the convention of the National Laundrymen's Association. The convention here will be held in the rooms of the Commercial Association and the members of that body are taking steps to tender the visiting laundrymen a proper reception. After the session is over the delegates will be taken for a trip through the county with Walla Walla as an objective point.

$50,000 FOR INJURIES TO CHILD.

SEATTLE, Wash., August 7.—Victor Norman Farrington, 3 years old, has brought suit against the Seattle Lighting Company for $50,000 damages, for personal injuries received that it is alleged will make the child a cripple for life. The complaint declares that defective pipes containing illuminating gas being distributed by the Seattle Lighting Company filled the manhole with gas.

While the child was standing near it a passerby dropped a match into the hole and caused the gas to explode. The child was struck on the head by the iron lid that covered the manhole, which had been thrown into the air by the explosion.

THE CAT CAME BACK.

ALBANY, Ore., August 7.—Rushing from the porch to scare a cat from the yard Sunday evening, Miss Estelle McCoy, a well known college young woman of this city, suffered a severely sprained ankle, which will prevent her from walking for a good many days. She stepped on some rough ground and fell. The pain of the sprain caused her to faint and she lay several minutes before the accident was discovered. The worse part of the episode, however, was that the cat came back yesterday morning.

PREMIUMS ARE STILL AVAILABLE.

PENDLETON, Ore., August 7.—It has been ascertained that the money appropriated by the last legislature as premiums for an agricultural fair to be held here is still available. The sum is $1500 with an additional $250 for printing, which is to be done at the office of the State Printer. By the opinion rendered by Secretary of State Dunbar the money may still be secured by the society and the warrant will be issued at the proper time.

The decision of the secretary means that the proposed agricultural fair, which has been scheduled to last from September 24 to 29, will be a success.

WOULDN'T STOP FOR PASSENGERS

SEASIDE, Ore., August 7.—About 30 people were left by the train Sunday night at Necanicum street station at Seaside. It is more convenient for persons near Necanicum street to take the train there than at the depot, and it has always been customary for the train to stop at that point both in coming to Seaside and returning to Portland. When it became evident the train was not intending to stop it was flagged by those wishing to go to Portland, but no attention was given the signal. Many of the people are business men, and are very much inconvenienced by the delay in returning home.

An Idaho man is contemplating the erection of a large modern hotel on Necanicum street next to the ocean. He says he will do so if the railroad will build a depot at the station on this street and allow baggage to be checked there.

It is estimated that there are at present fully 6000 people in Seaside, besides the 800 or 900 who live here all the year.

At a recent school meeting in Seaside it was decided to issue bonds of the district in the sum of $7000. The tenth grade is to be added the coming year.

STRIKERS LOUD IN CRITICISM.

SEATTLE, August 7.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor is blamed for the failure of the strike of the Ballard weavers. They declare Gompers did not lend them a cent to carry on their fight and attribute the result to this fact.

Fourteen thousand dollars was spent for relief among the Ballard strikers, and the International Shingle Weavers' Union contributed, this amount, falling largely on locals of this state. The state branch of the American Federation of Labor gave $450, and more than $3000 went to President Bolger and Organizer Young and other officials in charge of the strike.

The Ballard weavers declare they were promised backing to the extent of $100,000, but the money was not forthcoming. Gompers and Organizer Young, representing the National weavers, are both severely criticized, and mismanagement is openly charged.

DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

CASCADE LOCKS, Ore., August 7.—The house of A. L. Mattoon caught on fire yesterday, and before the neighbors were aroused the house was doomed. Mattoon had been working hard for the past year to add to and make the house comfortable, and was about ready to finish up by painting. Nothing remains but smoldering ruins, and the adjoining residence was saved by a miracle. Most of the household articles were taken out. There was no insurance. The cause of the fire was the lack of a brick flue, a stovepipe protruding through the roof to carry off the smoke.

"Lansleigh used to tell his girl that her voice was music to his ears."

"And now?"

"Oh! they're married. He has to face the music now!"—Answers.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic and diarrhoea come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's services in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before the doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. Now comes Japan with an appeal to the world to join in the effort to exterminate the entire rat family. The idea has some features to recommend it. There are too many rats, and the tribe is increasing. The rat is not a necessary animal, even to the vivisectionist. The guinea pig is 'ust as good, if not better. A war of extermination against rats would render other wars not only needless but impossible, and The Hague tribunal could take a long vacation. Man-kind may as well recognize the fact that the rat is a lamentable failure. The rat is a nuisance, a plague, and a calamity. Let it be abated.

APPEARANCES

Often a person is sized up by his appearance; by the tone that surrounds him. And more often a business house is sized up by the stationary it uses. A cheap letter head or a poor bill head gives a mighty poor first impression and makes business harder to transact. Good printing costs no more than poor printing. The first impression is half the battle in business. You wouldn't employ a "sloppy" salesman; why put up with "sloppy" stationery, that gives a wrong impression of the importance of your business. Let us do your printing and help you to make that ten strike.
